

Early Intervention Teacher

Full and part time positions available, no weekends or evenings

DCDC, a respected provider of birth to three early intervention services, is seeking an extraordinary candidate to join our early intervention team of professionals. DCDC's home visitation program facilitates learning and develops activities that promote the acquisition of skills by infants or toddlers with developmental delays or disabilities, including cognitive processes and social interactions within the child's natural setting. Our Early Intervention Teacher provides families with information, skills, and support related to enhancing the skill development of their infants/toddlers.

Bachelor's Degree or above from accredited college or university in early intervention, early childhood special education, early childhood education, child development, special education or family studies and one year of full-time or full-time equivalent experience working directly with children birth through 5 with disabilities and their families or a university supervised or college-supervised student practicum or teaching experience with young children with disabilities and their families. Or a related Bachelor's Degree with at least 15 credits in any of the above fields of study to be eligible for consideration.

Our extraordinary candidate should also be team oriented, have excellent knowledge of child development, possess strong written and oral communication skills, organizational and record keeping skills. Ideal candidate is a self starter and enjoys working with families and young children.

Please submit cover letter with your application for full consideration.

Since opening its doors in 1974, Danville Child Development Center has become a leading accredited early learning agency in the Central Susquehanna Valley. With a highly trained and experienced staff of professionals and multiple programs offered to children of all ages, including providing high quality early learning child care experiences, the Danville Child Development Center focuses on enriching the lives of the area's youth and their families. DCDC is an EOE.